IS IT POSSIBLE THAT the time-honored, involved legal gobbledegook, that has been over the years so much a part of documents drafted by attorneys, may be overhauled a trifle? That is at least as far as city ordinances, etc., are concerned?

Don't say "it's about time", like we did, without first digesting the informal oral report that city attorney Bob Dempster recently made to the Planning Commission concerning a conference of city attorneys that he had attended.

Bob explained that at this legal beagle gathering, as a result of a recent Supreme Court ruling, it was suggested that the law people use more restraint in the number of "whereases et all" that, traditionally seem to be an integral part of the introduction of most municipal ordinances that are adopted for some specific purpose. It was especially applicable when an ordinance prohibited something or other.

Obviously we are oversimplifying what Bob said to make our own point.

Bob understands that.

We hope.

-0-

IT SEEMS, ACCORDING to the way we interpreted Dempster's remarks, that one city in attempting to prohibit "hippies" from using city lawns got involved too much in the various "whereases" that, supposedly, explained the reasons for such legislation.

Subsequently the courts shot all kinds of holes in the whereases.

Bob's point, based on the collective thinking of the legal counselors, who were present at the conclave, was that a city ordinance should more or less stand on its own.

If it is a good law, adopted after proper consideration, it should not be necessary to complicate matters with a verbose introductory background replete with whereases that are subject to various interpretations.

Whereas, we agree.

Next case, please.

SPEAKING OF VERBOSity (we were, weren't we?), the committee that is now attempting to hammer out the new parking lot landscaping ordinance for the city has been directed, among other things, to do a little something about the clause in the proposed ordinance under the heading "exceptions".

Myron Alexander, a member of the Planning Commission, pointed out at the public hearing on the new ordinance that he attempted to read the "exceptions" paragraph about three times.

However, he had run out of gas each time, about one-third through and had to give up.

Almost everyone agreed that the paragraph left room for improvement.

Just throwing in a few periods here and there could have helped to some extent.

We are well aware that we are more conscious of such matters than we should be because of our occupation of a sort of word merchant.

But 123 words without a period?

You are lost before you can take a second breath.

FOR A BRIEF PERIOD one day recently, Police Captain Don Burr, Campbell's acting police chief, would have drawn a blank, if he had been called upon to flash his badge.

For a short spell, he didn't have it with him.

However, at least, Don knew where his wallet, with the badge inside, was. It was in safe hands.

WITH NO COST INVOLVED

Woman's club offers hall to city

Built in 1923 to house the first library in Campbell, the clubhouse of the Country Woman's Club at Campbell Ave., and First St. on Monday night was offered to the City of Campbell at no cost.

The only stipulation in the offer was that the Woman's Club be allowed to continue to hold meetings in the hall.

Mrs. Everett Grell, president of the Country Woman's Club, officially made the offer at the City Council on Monday night. The councilmen indicated they were receptive to the idea, provided all the legal details involved could be worked out satisfactorily.

The matter was referred to City Attorney Bob Dempster, who will meet with Austin Warburten, the woman's club attorney, to draft a tentative agreement.

The offer to the city was made by the Country Woman's Club after months of study by the club membership as to what should be done with the building that has long been a center of community activities of the town.

The Country Woman's Club was founded in 1905 and one of the main projects of the group from the beginning was to furnish facilities for the first library in the community.

Until the clubhouse was completed in 1923, the library was housed in a small building in the rear. Records also show that a mortgage-burning ceremony took place only five years after the structure was completed.

The building consists of two main rooms. One is used as a meeting place and the other as a "museum" housing a number of antique items that are symbolic of the early days of Campbell.

For 38 years (from 1923 to 1961) that portion of the building in which the museum is now located was used as the branch of the county library.

In Dec. 1961, the library was moved to its present quarters at Campbell and Central avenues which formerly was the Cornet department store. Approximately 6400 square feet is used by the library now and the "museum" is only about 1200 square feet. (Plans call for the library to move again when the entire civic center complex is completed.

Over the years, the clubhouse has actually been the only community center building in town and was used by countless local organizations for meetings and social affairs. Many wedding receptions have been held in the hall and even today the clubhouse has been consistently rented.

Even the City of Campbell was one of the "renters" in the past.

Before the city acquired the old Congregational Church for a city hall in 1956, the City Council met in the hall regularly.

Another civic organization which was long a tenant of the building once a week for 45 years was the Campbell Kiwanis Club which was founded in 1926. This month the Kiwanis Club moved its Tuesday luncheon locale to the Black Angus at Winchester and Payne.

The Campbell Chamber of Commerce also was one of the tenants of the woman's club over the years on two different occasions.

For a number of years, the CofC office was located in the small house at the rear of the main clubhouse and then after the library was moved out, the CofC shared quarters in the main hall with the "museum".

CLUB PRESIDENT---Mrs. Everett Grell, as president of the Country Woman's Club on Monday night offered the clubhouse to the City of Campbell at no cost. The offer was made at the City Council meeting and the city attorney was directed to work with the club's attorney in working out a suitable agreement.

EFFECTIVE JULY 1

City Council approves trash pickup rate increase for Campbell

Trash collection rates within the City of Campbell will go up on July 1, 1971, the City Council indicated Monday night in accepting the recommendation of City Manager Bob Stephens.

The new rate for one can will be $1.75 per month. The present charge is $1.50.

The recommendation of Stephens followed a series of study sessions with representatives of Green Valley Disposal Co., the firm that has had the refuse collection franchise since 1952.

Green Valley had requested the rate increase and a new 15-year contract. Acting on Stephen's recommendation, the Council approved a 10-year contract with an option clause in the agreement which would allow the city to extend the agreement for five additional years.

The new ordinance which will spell out the conditions and rates will be adopted at the next Council meeting on June 14.

Charges for extra cans will be increased from the present 85-cent rate to $1.10. Green Valley has had the present rates since 1966.

The city manager told the Council that in his opinion Green Valley Disposal had provided a consistently high level of service to the community and that the rates in Campbell were competitive to the charges made in other cities.

It was emphasized that the disposal firm would continue with offering two free trash pickups per year (one in the fall and the other in the spring) for all residents of the city.

REAFFIRMS

At the meeting on Monday, the City Council unanimously went on record reaffirming opposition to State Senate Bill 333 which would provide for binding arbitration in cases of labor disputes between public agencies and their employees.

In a letter to the City Council, Gerald A. Eller, president and Jean E. Murdock, vice-president, representing the Campbell Firefighters, Local 1939, AFL-CIO, had requested the Council to reverse its stand on the bill which is also that of the League of California Cities.

The firefighters union favors the bill claiming that its passage would lead to strikes.

DENIES APPEAL

The City Council on Monday also upheld by a unanimous vote the ruling of the Planning Commission which denied a rezoning application for Ray Stroppa on property at 355 Bedal Ln. The parcel is now zoned single-family residential and Stroppa had requested it be changed to industrial.

Residents in the area had objected to the zone change at the Planning Commission hearing and Thomas E. Kabatek, of 350 Bedal Ave., acted

THIS WAS BACK IN THE '20's

OLD-TIMERS IN TOWN---Hans Hansen, (left), owner of Tastegood Bakery since 1930 and Dr. Wyland (Duke) Morgan, dentist, took "seniority" honors at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon last week. Hansen received recognition for the longest continuous service as a merchant in town. Dr. Morgan, who opened his dental practice here in 1932, was named the longest in continuous professional service. The recognition was part of Small Business Week.

Sheila Tatum, an employee of the First National Bank in Campbell, with an entry of 1100, won the contest for guessing the number of licensed businesses in town. Guesses ranged from 50 to 5500. The actual count as of May 17 was 1099, according to Dan Knowles, small business week chairman.

Also honored at the luncheon were past presidents of the CofC. Of the last 15 presidents, 12 were present.

Taxable retail sales in Campbell show slight drop in 1970 from 1969

Taxable retail sales in Campbell, the source of the city's sales tax revenue, dropped almost $2-million or about 3.3% in 1970 from the previous year, according to the State Board of Equalization. Taxable sales in Campbell were $58,007,000 in 1969 and $57,044,000 in 1970.

According to the board's report, total taxable retail sales in the state reached $43.2 billion in 1970, a two per cent gain over the previous year. But the sale for 1970 registered the smallest relative rate of year-to-year growth since 1958.

All the gain in the level of sales the board attributes to higher prices rather than an increase in physical volume. In terms of 1969 dollars, according to the board, 1970 sales were down 2.8 per cent.

Santa Clara County showed a gain of 2.6% in 1970, with a total taxable sales of $2.1 billion.

Except in few instances, the gain was small in all cities in the county, but Campbell was one of just five cities (out of 15) that showed a decrease in taxable sales in 1970 from 1969. The others were Los Gatos, Palo Alto, Morgan Hill and Los Altos Hills.

Taxable retail sales in Los Gatos during 1970 took the greatest skid of all the cities in the county with sales drop-

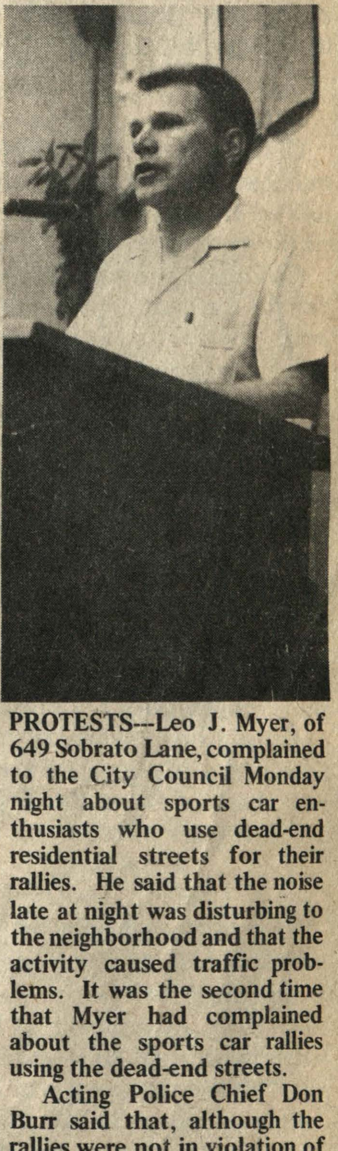
ON PARK COMMISSION---Tony Rodriguez, of 327 N. Carlyn Ave., assistant director of building and grounds at the University of Santa Clara, was appointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission on Monday night by the City Council.

Rodriguez, who has worked with the city park groups on numerous occasions in the past, replaced Ted Thorsen, of 568 Sobrato Dr., who submitted his resignation. Thorsen, in his letter of resignation, said that his time did not permit him to continue on the Commission.



PROTESTS---Leo J. Myer, of 649 Sobrato Lane, complained to the City Council Monday night about sports car enthusiasts who use dead-end residential streets for their rallies. He said that the noise late at night was disturbing to the neighborhood and that the activity caused traffic problems. It was the second time that Myer had complained about the sports car rallies using the dead-end streets.

Acting Police Chief Don Burr said that, although the rallies were not in violation of any law, the department would request the sports car people to use better judgment for routes and to inform the police when a rally was to take place in town.

Editorial

Inequities exist

Two of the most complicated areas of financial responsibility to the taxpayers that we know of concerns (1) the city-county relationship with respect to overlapping services and (2) charges made by the county for services county departments furnish cities.

There is no simple explanation of these involved fiscal matters, for confusion comes easily when one tries to unravel the situation as it pertains to what one gets for his tax dollar.

Most of us are aware, of course, that there is a general tax rate in the county that everyone pays regardless of whether a person lives within a city or in an unincorporated area. The rate is the same for all.

From this general tax rate the county finances certain basic services.

Over-simplified, these services are general in scope and include health and welfare and such similar activities.

Obviously there is no problem in figuring what the taxpayer is getting for his tax dollar, when the service that is rendered by the county is on a countywide basis.

But certain gray areas crop up in the picture when some county services are furnished cities on a contract basis. In other words, a city is charged a fee by the county for an expanded service in that particular city.

The problem then, of course, is to figure out what service the taxpayer within the city is entitled to as a county taxpayer and then charge the city for the services rendered above that amount.

As far as we know, no one has ever been able to determine any common denominator for that formula, and thus it all becomes quite cloudy.

As a case in point, take the sheriff's department as an example.

The sheriff's department is financed from the general tax rate of the county. In other words, the people in Campbell and the people in San Jose and all the other cities in the county, as well as those who live in the unincorporated areas, all pay the same rate.

Thus it should follow that all the citizens of the county should get the same type of service from the sheriff's department.

But it doesn't work out thataway.

Obviously those cities with their own police departments do not have the need for the police protection that is furnished by the sheriff's department to the unincorporated areas.

Before we get shot down, we hastily add that there are many services that the sheriff's department renders on a countywide basis. We are only referring to the basic police protection phase.

We also must add that there are cities without their own police that contract for extra police services from the sheriff's department. There is some sort of formula that has been established for that.

Our point is, of course, that we are not sure the people in the cities get value received from their county tax dollar in this instance as compared with those who live outside city limits.

Getting even closer to home is the county communications system, which is part of the general services of the county, financed from the general tax rate of the county.

County communications furnishes dispatch services for the various county departments and, in addition, on a contractual basis for a number of fire districts and cities, including Campbell.

Campbell has been notified that the contract for next year with county communications will be increased from approximately $15,000, the present rate, to $36,000 next year and $56,000 the following year.

County officials say that the rate increase is based on a cost study. County communications is now operating on what is known as a working capital fund basis and those agencies that use it must pay their prorata share of the costs. Even the county agencies that are served are charged (on the books anyway).

This proposed increase in rates has forced the City of Campbell to determine whether it will be more economical to operate its own dispatch system than stay with the county. It has been estimated that the city can run its own show for $30,000 annually, because the equipment will be on hand in the new city hall, a saving of $6,000 this year alone.

Although we have probably confused you more than ever, what we have been trying to point out in this editorial is that inequities exist in these fields.

But we haven't any answer. Yet.

had gleefully notified the acting police chief that his wallet was on her desk, where he had left it.

Don had been in the office earlier in the day. For some reason, which is still a trifle unclear, he set his wallet down and then walked off and left it.

Captain Burr just might have been testing the staff of The Press. Or something.

However, when he picked up the wallet, he was in and out so fast, that none of us had the opportunity to question his motives, if any.

And he moved so fast, we couldn't take his picture picking up the wallet.

Darn it.

BY THE WAY, DON Burr, who, since Police Chief John Morgan was stricken on February 13, has assumed the responsibility of running the police department, has done a tremendous job.

At the recent police dinner, Don and the department were publicly commended by former Mayor Dean Chamberlin and City Manager Bob Stephens for the efficient manner the police department has operated under trying circumstances.

Both Dean and Bob said that the city administration and the community as a whole had been proud of the department before John's illness, and now they are even more so.

We echo those sentiments.

NOSTALGIA WAS THE word for it.

We mean the Chamber of Commerce luncheon last week, when the oldest business and professional men from the point of continuous service in Campbell were honored.

It took considerable research to uncover just who deserved the old timer honors. Carl Winther, advertising manager of The Press, was largely responsible for checking and sifting all the historical facts for the CofC committee, composed of Dan Knowles and Joe Cuffaro.

"Old timer" merchant honors went to Hans Hansen, of the Tastegood Bakery, who started operating in Campbell in 1930.

Dr. W.R. (Duke) Morgan, who established his dental office in town in 1932, took the professional seniority honors.

Actually the field of "old-timers" in business in town is quite limited.

There aren't too many in the running that go back for a period of 20 years or more.

You can almost count 'em on two hands.

With almost 16 years at the helm of this newspaper to our credit, your editor can even be classified as an "old-timer".

The business community has expanded tremendously especially during the past decade. For example, there are now 1099 licensed businesses in town, it was announced at the CofC luncheon.

But there has been a pretty high mortality rate, for one reason or another, among the local stores during the past 20 years or so.

Anyway, we join the CofC in saluting the old-timers, even if we are almost in the same class.

-0-

THERE WAS A CERTAIN amount of nostalgia at the CofC luncheon involving the past presidents of the Chamber of Commerce who were also special guests.

There were 12 of the last 15 past presidents of the CofC on hand for the luncheon. They dated back to 1956, when Milt Nelson swung the gavel that year.

Only three of this distinguished group from this 15-year period were missing, Merv Nelson (1959); Ted Regas (1960); and Neal Royer (1969).

-0-

STARTING WITH MILT, each of the past prexies, after an appropriate remark or two, as far as his own particular tenure of office was concerned, would introduce his successor in office.

As you might well imagine, some of the past CofC top brass had more to say than others.

Some of the former presidents, who were present, are no longer either engaged in business in town or live in the area, but they came back for the occasion.

All seemed to enjoy reminiscing and recalling highlights of their gaveling days.

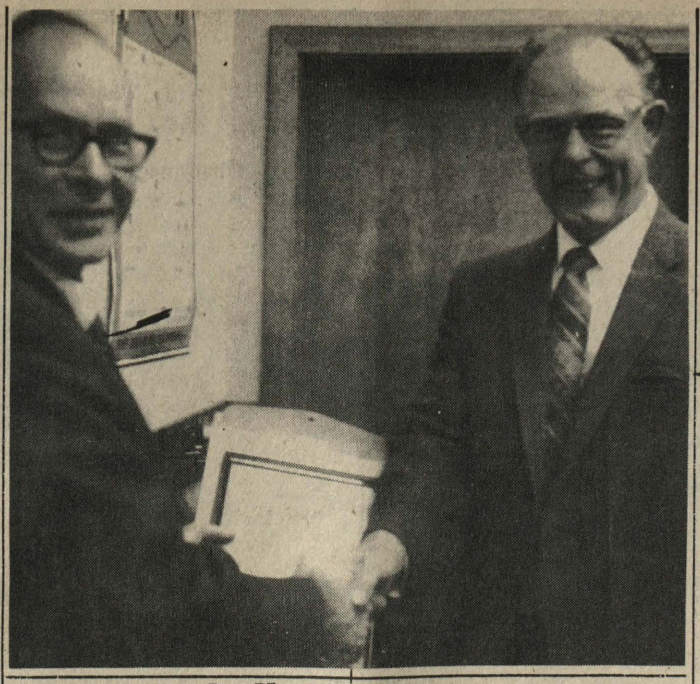
Most of the early ones indicated that keeping the CofC reasonably solvent while they were in the president's chair had been their major concern.

As we recall, there were some real deficit-spending years. We remember it took quite a long time to catch up with the back salary that was owed Sam Cava, who served as the first manager of the CofC.

Apparently the CofC today is in a much, much better shape, fiscally speaking.

As a f'instance, the Chamber picked up the tab for the luncheon for all of us former presidents who were on hand.

That's real hard-core progress.



IN APPRECIATION—Steve Goodman (left), engineer-manager of Sanitation District No. 4, awarded former Mayor Dean R. Chamberlin a certificate of appreciation at the City Council meeting on Monday night. Chamberlin, as mayor, served as director of the district during the past year.

New city hall to get janitor

Additional city personnel will probably be employed for janitorial services at the new city hall as a result of the City Council action Monday approving the recommendation of City Manager Bob Stephens. Bids from janitorial firms in the area exceeded all estimates, Stephens added.

Stephens said that the low bid for janitorial services of three received was $11,377.80 per year. The high one was $29,868.00 and the other was $21,840.00.

The city manager estimated the city could do the job with one additional man for $9,120 per year plus $1000 for equipment.

Councilman Bill Smeed opposed adding to the staff without first trying to see if the city's present personnel could do the job.

ping $3.8 million from $61,095,000 to $57,179,000 or about 6.2%.

The slow down in car sales was the main factor in the decrease in Los Gatos. Car sales dropped $4.7 million in that city from the previous year.

Milpitas and Cupertino registered the biggest gains percentagewise in retail sales during 1970. Milpitas chalked up sales of $28.1 million in 1970 compared to $22.6 million in the previous year, while Cupertino went from $33.2 million in 1969 to $44.2 million in 1970.

In Campbell, sales in the building material category dropped by $3,415,000 in 1970 from $12,034,000 to $8,519,000 and home furnishings decreased $380,000 from $10,318,000 to $9,938,000. With no auto agency in town, those two categories have long been the major factors in the retail sales picture in Campbell.

Substantial increases were shown in a number of other categories. "Apparel" gained $324,000 (from $609,000 to $933,000); "food stores" $386,000 (from $4,877,000 to $5,163,000); "general" up $1,233,000 (from $762,000 to $1,995,000); "liquor stores" up $463,000 (from $1619 to $2082).

Slight decreases were registered by "drug stores" down $127,000 (from $1,231,000 to $1,104,000); "eating places" down $57,000 (from $4,439,000 to $4,382,000); "service stations" down $47,000 (from $1,080,000 to $1,033,000).

Building permit total for year tops $5 million

Although building permits issued by the City of Campbell during April were down from the same month a year ago by more than $1-million, the total for the first four months is $2½-million ahead of last year, according to Wally Byron, city building official.

Since the first of the year, Byron reports, the city has issued $5,221,329 in building permits.

The permit total for April this year was $688,695 compared to $1,720,164 for April, 1970 when permits for multiples totalled $1,164,000 compared to $308,311 this April in that category. This April there were six multiple permits for 24 units. In April, 1970, there were only two permits for 116 units.

It was in the month of February this year that the building permit total went soaring when $3,524,601 in building permits were issued with $2½-million in multiples alone.

In April of this year there were five permits for commercial structures, totalling $157,000. The largest was for the new Tia Maria restaurant at 499 E. Hamilton for $123,583 with additions in the PruneYard totalling $23,872 and another on Kirkwood for $9,880.

Three industrial permits came to $165,314. These included, a warehouse at 89 Dillon for Santos Aparico for $27,272, a warehouse at 390 McGlincey for Mark Levy for $75,322 and a warehouse at 645 McGlincey for Wilburdon Construction Co. for $62,720.

STREET PROJECT

In another action, the City Council went through the final steps in setting up the Local Improvement District for the Catalpa-El Caminito-California area, including the awarding of the contract to Piazza on a low bid of $98,327.13. There were six bidders for the project ranging to a high of $128,331.78. The engineer's estimate was $124,209.70.

The improvements to the streets will be financed jointly by the property owners and the city. The city from bond funds, picks up two-thirds of the total cost ($82,952.45) and the property owners will pay one-third ($40,934.21). One written protest was filed against the project.

DEDICATION

The Council set Saturday, Sept. 25, as the date for the dedication of the new city hall and learned from City Manager Stephens that the preliminary city budget will be ready by June 1 with the first hearing set for June 14. Stephens also submitted a tentative calendar for budget sessions during the month of June with the final adoption set for June 28.

The Council was also informed that at a special meeting set for June 7, the decision of whether the city should plan to operate its own communication system or stay with the county should be made.

The county supervisors are scheduled to act on the new contract rates before the special meeting. Stephens said that at the June 7 meeting, the city's bond counsel will be on hand to report on the deadline for selling $720,000 city bonds.

The Council on Monday also approved offering for sale the 4000-sq. ft. parcel of land that is surplus right-of-way property for the Latimer Ave. extension.

By a 4-1 vote, (Councilman Bill Podgorsek dissenting), the Council on Monday approved the application for an eight-unit apartment to be constructed at 571 Marathon Ave. under the planned development zoning.

Podgorsek contended that there are too many apartments on the drafting boards for the city at the present time and he opposed zone changes that would allow others.

DISCUSSION PROBLEMS--- Participants in a day long environmental conference at Rolling Hills School discuss ecological problems. Students from ten schools attended the conference, listened to speeches by fellow students, visited workshops and expressed concern over daily problems.

Kids hold conference

by MARK KARWOWSKI and ROBERT AKITA
Rolling Hills Jr. High School Ecology Class

Junior High School students have been for the most part overlooked. Anytime you hear about students, it usually concerns students on the high school and college level.

We students at Rolling Hills have tried to prove that junior high school people are not to be overlooked, that we can do something worthwhile and constructive.

On Saturday, April 24, the first Environmental Conference was held at Rolling Hills Junior High in Los Gatos. Altogether nine schools participated in the activities; Rolling Hills, Blackford, Fisher, Campbell, Castro, Houge, Kennedy, Price and Redwood.

The conference was designed to acquaint students with the problems concerning our environment, but also we felt that through the conference we could show the world that junior high students are responsible enough to plan, organize, and put on something this big.

The very idea for the conference came from the ecology classes of Rolling Hills, we wanted to have a conference about ecology and conservation and at the same time involve as many junior high kids as possible.

The first step toward the conference was to contact the other schools and plan a series of three meetings to coordinate and organize the conference. A student and teacher representative came from each school to the meetings.

The first meeting was held in late January at Rolling Hills. Thirty schools had been invited, but because of a lack of interest or other reasons, eighteen schools showed up and by the final meeting only nine schools were participating in the conference.

The Earthweek Environmental Conference began when Mark Karwowski, the coordinator and master of ceremonies, gave an introduction welcoming everyone to the conference. Following him came three keynote speeches. The first given by Robert Akita was on the present state of our environment.

The second speech was given by Ed King on what we could do to save our environment. Ellen Mayock gave the third speech which was on what the average student thinks about pollution.

Next, students went to see various workshops on everything from "Bird Feeders and Bird Houses" to a student-made ecology movie on the population explosion.

After that we had a lunch break and another session of workshops. We ended our conference with a student panel which discussed the problems of pollution.

Very few adults were at the conference. Yet we had no problems and I've never seen our school cleaner. Our conference was a success. We hope that through our efforts people will realize that young people are concerned about our environmental crisis.

Girl Scouts

NEIGHBORHOOD 17
by Boots Lansford

Girl Scout Brownies of Neighborhood 17 performed "Dances From Around The World" as their annual Mother-Daughter event this week.

The scene, held at Campbell Elementary School drew more than 100 people. A Color Guard, composed of girls from each of the five participating troops, was the only "traditional" happening.

Hostessing Troop 761, from Hamilton School, clenched roses between their smiling teeth as they twirled their bright print skirts to a Mexican rhythm; Holland was represented by Rosemary School's Troop 131; St. Lucy School's 422 hulaed to an authentic sway under the direction of a Native Hawaiian mother just off-stage; Dover School's 158 worked a song into their rousing German dance;

Hamilton School's 1026 stood by as one member did a Korean number, then they read a poem to their mothers and each gave their mother an apron they had made.

All troops joined together in singing grace before refreshments and asked the visitors to join them in singing taps. Each mother was then served cookies and punch individually by her own daughter. Special performing guests were girls from Senior Girl Scout Troop 311, who led singing during refreshment time.

NEIGHBORHOOD 15
by Nan Warren

A family potluck and Court of Awards was held recently for the Junior Scouts of Troop 829, San Tomas School. Talk about "parent involvement"---the turn-out for the event was fantastic. Badges earned by the 38 girls were presented along with a few special awards for "outstanding camping".

The success of a good working troop can be measured by its leaders and parent help and these girls have a great deal going for them in both directions.

The girls participating in the troop dramatics badge presented a clever skit based on the beginning of Girl Scouting in the United States. Those who earned the dancer badge did a dance routine to Beau Jangles.

Special thank you's were given to Mrs. Grady Prescott and Mrs. Anthony Mendivil, the troop leaders who have so ably led the Jr.'s through an exciting and fun filled year.

The girls closed their final event of the year with a quiet and impressive candle-light ceremony.

More parent involvement was evidenced when the troop leaders of Neighborhood 15 had their final meeting of the school year. Special guests for the delicious potluck dinner, included their husbands and the S.M.E. troop fathers.

Without the support of understanding husbands who share the belief that the Girl Scout program has much to offer their daughters and others, it would be most difficult for a troop leader to function well with her girls.

Each year more and more fathers are becoming active in Girl Scouting. Little girls have a habit of growing up far too rapidly and the time spent with them now is extremely important. Some fathers take an active part in troop camping---not on the sidelines, but right in the thick of things.

Others become "transportation experts", etc., while still others take on the position of Sustaining Membership Enrollment chairmen for their daughter's troop.

This past year has been one of activity and growth and we're extremely grateful to those who have taken time to use their talents and energies to make Girl Scouting a meaningful thing in the lives of our girls.

Simply because the leaders have had their last meeting, by no means indicates Girl Scouting activities have ceased for the summer. Many troops still have camping trips in the offing, pre-summer cook-outs, skating parties, etc.,---not to mention the anxious anticipation of the beginning of Day Camp.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Councilman John M. Chargin became the second mayor in the City of Campbell's history on Tuesday night when his fellow-councilmen unanimously named him to the post. Councilman Charles Rose, at the same meeting, was selected as mayor-pro-tempore, the first time such a position had been filled on the local City Council. Mayor Chargin succeeds Richard Morton, who had served as the city's mayor since the city was incorporated in 1952.

Officials of the Campbell Union (Elementary) School District were being compared this week to those story-book parents who had so many children they have to use numbers to designate the youngsters because there weren't enough names to go around. Three schools planned for the district, for want of more suitable monikers, have been given the unromantic labels of "Numbers 12, 13 and 14".

Enrollment in the Campbell Union Elementary School District is expected to rise above the 6000 mark next year, a gain of more than 800 over this year.

TEN YEARS AGO

Plans are shaping up for Campbell's 69th Old Settlers Days celebration. May 12 has been set for the selection of a queen to rule over the four-day celebration.

A combined Homemaking and Art Festival open to the public will be held Sunday at Del Mar High School as the opening activity of a full "Public Schools Week" program.

During Public Schools week, a display of visual and manipulatory aids made by classroom teachers of Campbell Union School District will be open to the public at the Bank of America in Hamilton Plaza and also at the Wells Fargo Bank American Trust Co. on Campbell Ave.

CART RIDES, FASHION SHOW

Kids amateur dog show set for June 5

It has been said that "every dog should have its day", but all too often this doesn't apply to the varieties of dogs that are simply called "dog" often with the unromantic designation of plain ordinary "mutt".

Well, they're going to have their day – and a big one it is – on Saturday, June 5, beginning at 10 a.m. It's all going to happen on that day at the Main Mall of the Kirkwood Plaza shopping center.

The second annual Kid's Amateur Dog Show, a joint venture of the Kirkwood Plaza merchants association and Ken-L-Ration, will give kids under 16 a chance to compete in any or all of five categories with prizes and gifts for everyone.

You see, this is a dog show in which they're all winners.

Here are the categories in which kids may enter their pet dogs: best costumed dog; best trick dog; smallest dog; largest dog; and best groomed dog.

The first place winner in each class is eligible to compete for "Best of Show" and the grand prize. Entry blanks will be available at any store in the Kirkwood Plaza shopping center, as well as in this issue of The Campbell Press.

Entry blanks should be properly filled out and may be left at any of the stores at Kirkwood Plaza or at the offices of The Campbell Press.

PET VILLAGE

Coincidentally with the dog show, the center's Dolphin Pet Village will hold its Grand Opening. The Dolphin Pet Village is comprised of the Kirkwood Animal Hospital (Rene Accornero, DMV, owner), Dolphin Pet (Brenda J. Turnbull, owner) and Dolphin Aquarium (Bart Fenolio and Tom Jackson, owners).

A lively and exciting show is also planned for the Pet Village opening. Among the events is one sponsored by the Alaskan Malamute Club, a pulling contest, pitting dogs who have individually pulled as much as 1,200 pounds each. There will be a gorilla there, too, with photographer (Miller of Campbell) to take pictures of any kid brave enough to pose with the gorilla.

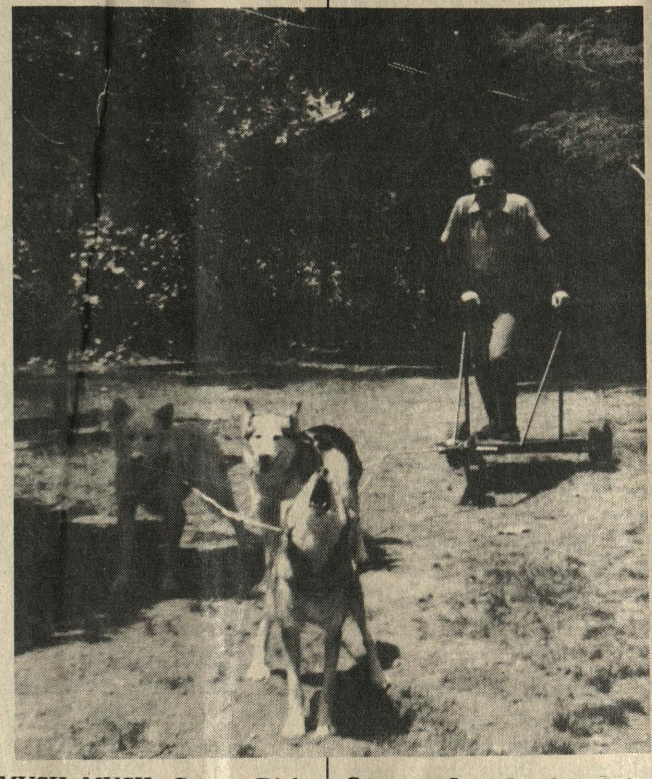
CART RIDES

Another feature of the Pet Village opening will be cart rides for the smaller kids, with huge St. Bernards and Malamutes doing the pulling.

And lastly, for those with an eye to high fashion in the doggy world, there'll be a special Doggy Fashion Show featuring wardrobes by "Custom Creations", fashion czars of dogdom. Free gold fish and balloons will also be given to each youngster attending.

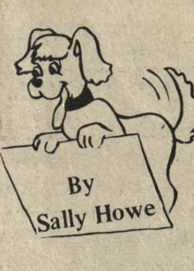
OBEDIENCE SHOW

Santa Clara Dog Training Club, Inc., will put on an obedience "fun" match for their members at 1 p.m. on Saturday, and on Sunday an obedience demonstration will be held.



MUSH, MUSH---George Rickard urges his team of Alaskan Malamutes to pull heavy objects. The dogs will compete is strength pulling contests as part of a weekend celebration at Kirkwood Plaza Shopping Center on June 5 and 6. Other events include a kid's dog show, an obedience match, a St. Bernard cart pulling demonstration, and a canine fashion show.

Bringing up fido



By Sally Howe

A few weeks ago we mentioned the problems which ticks can cause on Fido and got a nice letter from reader Marge Schanck, which I'd like to pass on to you.

* * *

"It didn't sound as though you have done much fishing or camping with your pets---nor have you lived in Boulder Creek for over a year as we have.

"Needless to say, we've learned quite a bit about ticks!

"Most methods of de-ticking a dog, cat or human---by burning it, pouring kerosene on it, or "un" screwing it, etc., can be most painful to the "host" and not always successful.

"The school of thought that if you "just leave it alone, it will fall off of its own accord when it gets full (in about a week)", is not good either because the animal will scratch and bite the area in an attempt to rid itself of the irritant. This often results in infection.

"Also, when unscrewing a tick, more often than not, a portion of the head gets broken off and remains buried in the flesh. This, too, will cause pain and sometimes very serious infection. (And have you ever tried unscrewing a soft, pea-sized, blood filled "body"---or is it a stomach? Ugh!)

"So, as with most things, 'an ounce of prevention, etc.' Before and after a trip into tick country, thoroughly dust the animal with a flea and tick powder. Work it into the skin paying particular attention to the legs and area between the toes and pads. (The powder I use is sold only through veterinarians.

"After the outing, do check the dog thoroughly---as you said in your column. Should a tick be found already in the process of starting its feast, completely cover its body with the powder.

"This will smother it and, in about five minutes, it will back out of its own accord---head and all. (This works on humans too.)

"Of course you keep an eye on it during this time in order to retrieve it and kill it dead---or else it will live to feed again!"

Many thanks, Marge, for sharing your own experience. There are lots of "tricks" on pet care---little common sense things which can help make their lives (and yours) more pleasant. Please don't hesitate to contribute, question, or disagree with us.

HOSPITAL TRUSTEE---Mac Martinez, of Campbell, chairman of the language arts division of West Valley College and newly-elected member of the Campbell Union High School board of trustees, has been elected to the board of trustees of The Good Samaritan Hospital. Martinez is also on the board of the San Jose Police Athletic League and the San Jose Evangelical Release Time Education. Allan M. Walter, an architect, was also named to the hospital board at the same time.

DOGS: Modern Grooming Techniques, by Hilary Harmer (636.7083 - Non Fiction)

Hilary Harmer has written a book with the novice in mind and it is simply and clearly expressed. Precise instructions for bathing, clipping, trimming, stripping and normal grooming routines for each of the breeds recognized by the AKC have been included. The complicated techniques of some breeds have been dealt with in great detail and simplified and tabulated for quick and easy reference for the beginner. The author says dogs should not suffer through long grooming sessions.

Community Theater makes awards to participants

MARK HEALY

NANCY RIAZA

The Cabrini Community Theater (CCT) celebrated its second annual awards night recently with a potluck dessert at the St. Frances Cabrini Hall. Many of the past year's performers, numbering over 200, attended with family and friends.

Highlighting the evening were color films and tapes of the past year's six productions. Jeffrey Wayne, one of CCT's guest artists sang several numbers from "Man Of La Mancha", his recent hit with the San Jose Music Theater. Trophies and awards were given in several categories.

In the over-13 age category, Best Actor was given to Bill Howard from St. Leo's School. Bill is best remembered as the super-patriot western senator in the 1930 political musical satire "Of Thee I Sing" and as the pompous general in the recent "Emperor's New Clothes".

Best Actress was Robbi Thornburg of Camden High. Robbi has been seen in many CCT shows this year, receiving raves for her portrayal of the Bumboat Woman, Buttercup, in "HMS Pinafore" and her outstanding performances in the "Survey of American Musical Theater". She has also been an assistant director for the past year.

Supporting Actor was Rick Dolen of Los Gatos High. Rick played the role of the villain Dick Deadeye in "HMS Pinafore" and served as stage manager for several shows.

Best Supporting Actress was given to Nancy Riaza from Dartmouth Jr. High. Nancy excelled in such roles as Mary Turner, All-American girl in "Of Thee I Sing", Josephine in "HMS Pinafore", and the empress in "Emperor's New Clothes".

In the under-13 age category, Best Actor was Matt Lemucchi of St. Martin's for his portrayal of the Gypsy Boris in "Fortune Teller" and the cigar-puffing politician in "Of Thee I Sing".

Best Actress was Anne Healy of St. Frances Cabrini. Anne has been in all of CCT's shows this past year, appearing as Hebe in "HMS Pinafore", Miss Benson in "Of Thee I Sing", and a weaver in "Emperor's New Clothes".

Supporting Actor went to Maurice Agrill of St. Martin's for his roles as Sandor, the gypsy lover in "Fortune Teller" and the French ambassador in "Of Thee I Sing".

Supporting Actress was Carol Valenti of St. Christopher's School. Carol stood out as the giant's wife in "Jack and the Beanstalk" and as the romantic lead, Gretchen, in "Emperor's New Clothes".

Outstanding Performer of the Year, given to the performer who is consistently excellent in their roles, was awarded to Mark Healy. Mark's list of credentials for this award are staggering. He is the only CCT member to have been onstage in every production (16) since CCT's inception in 1969.

Not only is Mark a fine character actor, but also an excellent comic, as demonstrated in his roles as Sir Joseph Porter in "HMS Pinafore", the bumbling vice-president, Throttlebottom, in "Of Thee I Sing", the bullying giant in "Jack and the Beanstalk", and the very self-important emperor in "Emperor's New Clothes".

Mark is a freshman at Leigh High and an assistant director for the San Jose Children's Musical Theater.

Guest artists Jeffrey Wayne and Richard Crossley, well known for their performances with the San Jose Music Theater and West Valley Light Opera received plaques and a special thanks from resident director John P. Healy, Jr. for their donated time and energy.

Plans are under way for the summer workshops, divided into three sections. The workshops will begin June 21 and will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday at the St. Frances Cabrini Hall on Camden Ave. Sign ups are June 5 and 12 from 1-3 p.m. For further information call 371-0232 or 371-0491. Scheduled is "Wizard of Oz" and "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" as a marionette-people production.

COLLEGE AWARD---Linda J. Porter of Campbell was given an Alpha Zeta Honorary Fraternity Scholastic Achievement Award as the Outstanding sophomore-junior faculty award at Fresno State College recently at the school's second annual Honors Convocation.

During the summer session, the West Valley College Symphony Orchestra will rehearse each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening from 7-10 in Room E-12 of the Campbell campus in preparation for a concert late in July. Any interested musicians are invited to attend the rehearsals, which will be conducted by Cesare Claudio.

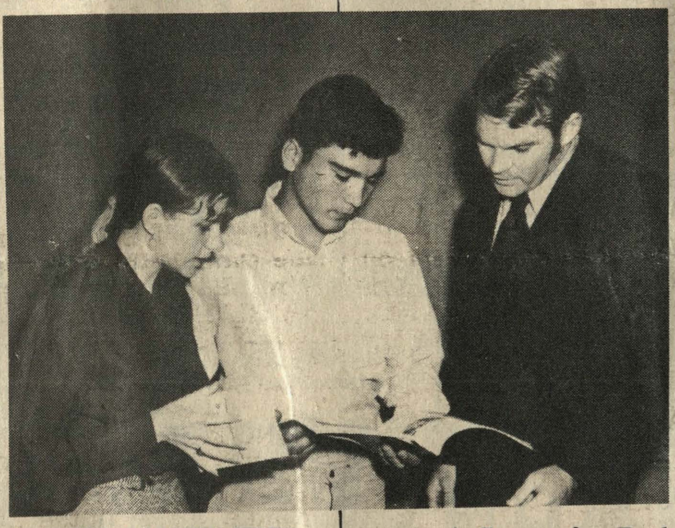
Seniors explore the job market

Senior students from Campbell High School who are planning to work after graduation, participated in an occupational exploration program on campus recently. Directed by senior and junior counselors, Mrs. Mary Parker and Mrs. Agnes Valdez, the program involved representatives from eight Santa Clara County industries.

Topics included salaries, benefits, advancement, interviewing techniques, job openings, and trends in local industries. Students interested in working for a specific company were encouraged to apply during the program.

Campbell's project was planned as a pilot for other high schools to use in organizing programs with industries. Occupational Exploration booklets and films were supplied for the program by the Santa Clara County Office of Education.



CAREER POSSIBILITIES --- Linda Maxey and Bob Duarte, seniors at Campbell High School, and Stewart Perry, personnel director for Ford Company, discuss the possibility of employment with Ford after graduation.

HUMAN RESOURCES HELP ---Wilma O'Quinn and John Reilly, senior students from Campbell High School, talk about job opportunities to Hal Netzloff, supervising employment counselor from the Department of Human Resources Development. Darting Around with Tom Carroll

If you think darts are booming over here, take a look at what is going on in England. Coventry, a town of approximately the same size as San Jose, fields six leagues with about 50 teams each during the winter season. Each league is divided into divisions of ten to 15 teams.

During past summers, the Coventry Darts Association has run only one league. This summer there will be five leagues. In March the Central League said they had more than 40 teams and hoped to run five divisions. By mid-April they had enough teams for six divisions.

In noting this up-surge in summer activity, Greg Oliver commented in the Coventry Evening Telegraph, "If the trend continues the Seventies could be remembered as the era when England's most popular indoor sport switched from a winter to a summer pastime."

NEW DART PUB

In keeping with the expansion of the sport, Northern California Darts Assn. vice-president Rick Miller has installed a board in the Diamond Wheel, 805 Lincoln Ave., San Jose. Owner Jess Leal already has some dart addicts and the board has only been up for two weeks.

The layout is nice. The board is in what appears to be a banquet room in an arrangement similar to the English pubs, a lounge with live music, a dining room, a card room and a dart room.

KNIGHTS II SUCCUMB

Black Knight II lost its bid for domination of the South Bay "B" League. Tied for first place with Harold's Club in Redwood City before the match, Harold's delivered a resounding 11-1 defeat to move ahead of the Knights by ten games.

Tonight is the last night of the spring season. The only way the Knights can finish in first place is for them to win all 12 of tonight's games and for Harold's to lose all of theirs. A situation that is highly improbable.

SOUTH BAY "A"

South Bay "A" League is still a tight race with only five games separating the first three teams. Three weeks ago, Banbury Clock I had a two game edge on Scarlett La Rue's. When the two teams met in head-on battle, La Rue's emerged victorious, 8-4. This moved them ahead by two games.

Neither team has an easy match, tonight. The Clock plays the third place Dutch Goose while the La Rue's battle the fourth place Lancashire Lad I.

If the La Rue's split with the Lad, the Clock has to win nine games to tie for first, and ten to take the lead. In any case the Clock has to win three more games than the La Rue's for a league tie.

Letters to the Editor

PLEASED SON

Dear George,

You can imagine how pleased I was to read, completely to my surprise, that my mother is Campbell's "Mother of the Year!"

Although I admit there is some prejudice involved, I must say I support the community's choice wholeheartedly! Thank you, particularly, for your kindness to me, my brothers, and my parents over the years.

Mom usually (if not always) takes things as they come and very few events actually halt her normal routine. This very special thoughtfulness, though, did. For this, my sincere thanks to the people of my hometown---who apparently think almost as highly of my mother as I do!

Lots of my friends here in San Diego have been eating Mom's cookies for the last four years. When I told them of this latest news, many of them insisted I get them copies of the articles. Some of them even said they were going to send their copies to their own mothers! If you have any "extras" at the office, I'd be very appreciative if you could send them down to me. Of course, I will reimburse you for the papers and postage.

Right now I'm involved as director of Romeo and Juliet here at school (The School of Performing Arts) and am preparing for a vocal recital this coming weekend. So I'd better get back to that.

Many thanks.

Sincerely,
Walt Ritter

TRUST COMMUNISM?

Dear Editor:

History has proven over and over again that the communists cannot be trusted. People living in Berlin, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and many others can confirm this fact, not to mention the people of South-East Asia.

But today, many Americans have been leaning toward the Communist cause. One major victory for the Communists would be an unconditional withdrawal of American forces from Indo-China. Many of the persons advocating this move are the same ones carrying the Viet-Cong and Communists flags in mass demonstrations. This only damages their cause and reveals their true motive, sympathy for the communists, and a desire for a Communist conquest of the world.

If we withdraw completely, right now, 54,000 Americans would have lost their lives in vane. The whole campaign would have been worthless.

South Vietnam would not be able to cope with the communists. The communists would then have obtained another objective. Indo-China is the key to all of Asia, and her loss to the communists would place the whole globe in peril. Thus, the world would lose all faith in the U.S., due to her failure.

Mark Twain once wrote, "It is one thing to see one fighting for their rights, but it's a sight better to see one fighting for another's rights." True, we are losing American lives in Vietnam. But, should we disregard the millions of lives in South-East Asia that will be preserved because of our efforts? If the matter of losing American lives is the opposition's only argument, they are completely void of any understanding of the issue. No men are free unless all men are free.

Sincerely,
Roland Propst, Age 16, Campbell High. Spokesman, P.A.C. I.F.I.C. Committee (People Against Communist Infiltration of Free Indo-China).

California with 360,000 horses is second in horse population in this country, following Texas which has one-half million horses.

County to hold auto auction flea market on Saturday, June 5

Would you like to buy the "tractor" section of a huge truck, or a four-wheel drive jeep, or a county car, or maybe a used "fingerprint" camera?

The County Purchasing Department will hold a combined auto and truck auction and "flea market" sale of used equipment and unclaimed stolen property on Saturday, June 5 at the county parking lot. All vehicles will be sold with a certificate that they meet smog restrictions.

About the "flea market," Assistant County Purchasing Agent Ed Rawlinson reports, "Our sale last year proved such a success that we are repeating it with this year's auction. The things we will be selling are items too small to auction and not normally traded in to any advantage.

"We have many typewriters, both electric and manual," he added, "calculators, adding machines, duplicators, copy equipment, photographic equipment, auto and truck parts and tires, two guitars with no strings, a girl's bike, some old Coke machines, just about anything. There are even some color TV sets.

"Do you suppose anyone wants a commercial size shoeshine stand?" Rawlinson asked.

"Part of the stuff we will sell is loot which the Sheriff has recovered from burglars," Rawlinson explained. "Sometimes the crooks have stolen so much stuff they can't remember where it came from.

"If the Sheriff can't locate an owner, the county stores it for the legal time period and then sells it if no one claims the item."

Along with the flea market and auto auction, volunteers from the Juvenile Center Auxiliary will run a clothing and rummage sale to help finance their work with delinquent children.

Rawlinson expects the vehicle auction to be the main attraction when the sale starts in the County Parking Lot, Younger and San Pedro streets, at 9 a.m. The cars and trucks will be available for inspection at that time. The flea market sale starts at 9:30 and the vehicle auctioning starts at 10 a.m.

Bob Clanton will be the auctioneer.

The County will sell 38 sedans, including eight patrol cars built to Highway Patrol specifications with air conditioning included.

Also on sale will be three four-wheel drive vehicles, nine pickups, four vans, a panel truck, two station wagons, two dump trucks and three wrecked cars.

The biggest item in the sale will be the 1961 International tractor.

Rawlinson described it as "a locomotive of a truck" with a two-speed rear axle. Garage Supervisor Tom Thomas said that "it would make an ideal rig to pull a water tanker for a construction company".

Thomas added that all of the vehicles have been under regular maintenance at the County garage. Under County policy generally vehicles are sold at the end of five years or 50,000 miles.

All sales are for cash or cashier's checks, and no personal checks will be accepted. Successful bidders may have an item or vehicle held for one week if they post a deposit of $50 for each $1,000 of purchase price, or fraction of $1,000.

FROM THE CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY PATROL

A tightening of the California motor vehicle anti-noise law by the 1970 legislature has resulted in an increase in the percentage of automobiles and motorcycles being stopped by the California Highway Patrol for excessive noise.

According to the Highway Patrol, 4.9 percent of the motorcycles measured for noise in January and February this year were found to be in violation of the anti-noise law as compared to 2.1 percent of those measured in all of 1970.

Among motor vehicles weighing less than 6,000 pounds (mostly passenger cars and pickups) measured during that period, 2.3 percent were found to be louder than the law allows as compared with one half of one percent in 1970.

The Legislature last year reduced the limits of allowable noise for motorcycles from 88 decibels to 82 decibels while they are ridden in speed zones posted for 35 miles per hour or less, and from 90 to 86 decibels in speed zones of over 35 miles per hour.

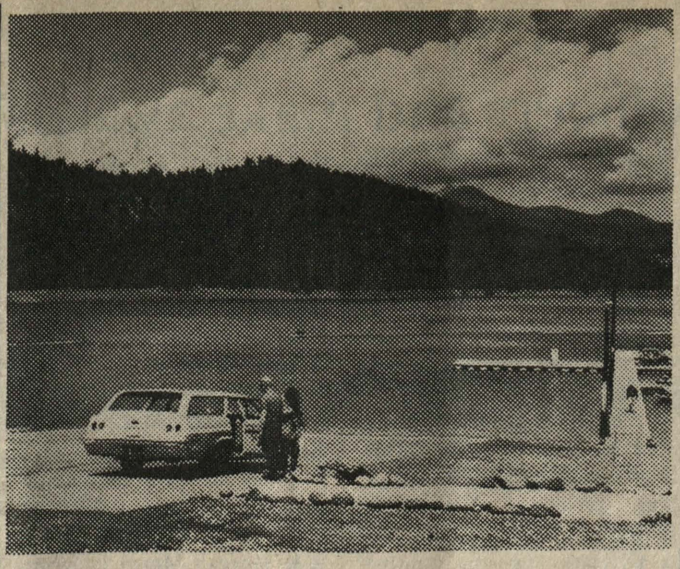
Noise limits of motor vehicles with a gross weight rating of 6,000 pounds or less were changed from 82 to 76 decibels within speed zones of 35 miles per hour or less, and from 86 to 82 decibels in speed zones of more than 35 miles per hour.

Violations of the anti-noise statute can occur, according to the CHP, from modified or defective exhaust systems, or from improper driving habits such as gunning the engine to excessive speeds.

The Legislature lowered the limits of allowable noise to current levels after a study showed motorcycles and passenger cars, including pickups, exceeded those levels only if they were improperly driven, or if the exhaust system was faulty or modified.

Action by the 1969 Legislature lowered limits on allowable noise from trucks and truck combinations last year, and the percentage of trucks stopped for excessive noise rose to 1.5 percent in 1970 as compared to 1.1 percent during the last six months of 1969. The percentage of trucks found in violation during January and February this year dropped to about three-fourths of one percent.

The law currently allows trucks to reach a noise level of 88 decibels in speed zones of 35 miles per hour or less, and a level of 90 decibels in higher speed zones.



Lake Siskiyou offers campsites with view plus good fishing

If you'd like to go camping near a clear mountain lake where the campsites are seldom filled even in summer, where there's a spectacular view of Mt. Shasta and the fishing is good, try Lake Siskiyou.

Located near the town of Mt. Shasta, this new camping area was opened last year for the first time, reports the California State Automobile Assn.

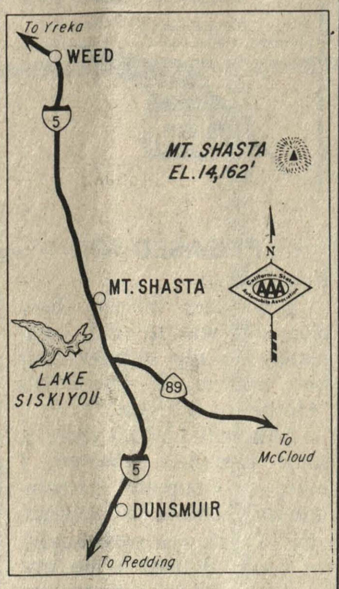
Lake Siskiyou was created when the Box Canyon Dam was completed and the streams of the Mt. Eddy watershed emptied their cold sparkling waters into the lake. Although it is actually a reservoir, it has the appearance of a natural lake.

Pine forests surround much of the lake and the ground slopes gradually down to the water forming almost natural beaches.

The camping facilities are a private concession and they are first class. There are 245 campsites, each one has a 55-foot paved parking space, a fireplace, picnic table and food locker. The camping fee is $3 per day.

There are restrooms, showers and laundry sinks close by and a concessions store where you can buy groceries and other camping supplies you may have forgotten.

Lake Siskiyou is fairly large, measuring some 430 acres. It is stocked by the Department of Fish and Game with rainbow and eastern brook trout. There is a paved launching ramp and if you don't have a boat of your own you can rent one for fishing or water skiing.



You don't have to use a boat to have fun. There are shore fishing and swimming areas clear around the lake.

For swimmers there is an attractive sandy beach complete with bath house and dressing rooms. The lake water is cold, but during July and August it warms up to a comfortable temperature and is considerably warmer than Lake Tahoe or other Sierra lakes.

Lake Siskiyou is just two miles from the town of Mt. Shasta. You can drive up the Everitt Memorial Highway which leads up to the Mt. Shasta Ski area for a spectacular view of Mt. Shasta itself, one of the most impressive peaks in California and the entire west.

There are also many other small, natural alpine lakes close by that are popular for fishing and are accessible by paved roads.

Tset THEORY

That's right – TSET theory. Tset: the opposite of "test." It's a new word; I just invented it. A tset is sort of like a test except that the answers are already given to the student and then he has to make up the question. Example: The answer is "Campbell, California", what is the question? Answer: Name a small city near San Jose, California.

You can see from the above example that everyone will get a perfect score, thereby improving his grades and morale. Teachers will like tsets because they will be very easy to grade, not requiring any decision-making whatsoever.

Because tsets will be so easy to pass and so easy to grade, I'm recommending that school teachers adopt the habit of giving them only on Monday, thereby brightening up the whole week for those children who have never been able to get a perfect score on a test. Then on Friday, the teacher could say "Be sure to unstudy over the weekend, because we're going to have a tset on Monday!"

Some samples – more tset items:

2.) ________________

Questions: 1) How do you pronounce "4" in base five? (Give two answers.)

2) Finish this sentence, "One basketball team lost and ."

3) If four boys dated four girls and they all went to a Jack-in-the-Box, what happened?

4) How many cars were wrecked, what was the result and when did it happen?

5) Einstein once said " is what remains after we've forgotten all that we learned in school."

6) If one car is traveling at 30 miles an hour, and another car is traveling at 40 miles per hour in the opposite direction, and a train is on the track near Fresno, what will the results be? Explain your answer.

7) The local basketball team has invented a new defensive formation for use during overtime periods, what does the Coach call his new tactic?

One final tset item: Ans. – The Campbell Chamber of Commerce.

Question: What small organization ought to be trying to make what small city the center of educational innovation by encouraging progressive changes in their local schools?

"It ain't tha things we don't know what gits us inta trouble, its tha things we know that ain't so!" – Artemus Ward.

School board meets Thursday

A master agreement between the City of Campbell and Campbell Union (elementary) School District for the joint use of seven school sites for neighborhood parks will be ready for the perusal of the board of trustees this Thursday, May 27.

The board will meet in the district office at 7 p.m.

Under the joint powers agreement, the City of Campbell will allocate $10,000 to each of the seven schools for the development of the parks.

The board on Thursday may also approve a resolution indicating the district's intention to sell bonds. It has been recommended that bond funds be used for construction projects at Campbell ($21,168.42); Hazelwood ($200,076.77) and Forest Hill ($26,306.98) for a total cost of $278,496.19.

With the present bond fund balance of $263,301.97 plus $44,024.37 due from other funds, the district is short $59,218.59 for the three projects.

WHEEL-AWAY CYCLE CENTER
SCHWINN BICYCLES
A great new cycling idea from Gitane! It's as much fun to ride as to look at. The ride is strictly first class, with full-width padded seat, fringed vinyl surrey top, rear curtains, wood-grained fenders, heavy duty drum brakes, dual head and tail light, and horn. Dual pedals and tiller steering allow operation from either side. Great for resorts and mobile home parks too.
